

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

[44] An automatic patient compliance monitoring method includes communicating a patient compliance data generating device and a charging and communication station;

5 transmitting patient compliance data to the charging and communication station;

charging the patient compliance data generating device with the charging and communication station; communicating the charging and communication station and a central server; transmitting patient compliance data from the charging and communication station to a central server; communicating the central server and a 10 clinician computer; transmitting patient compliance data from the central server to a clinician computer; and generating a patient use report from the patient compliance data.